

Directions: One a new sheet of paper, write the correct heading. This will be warm ups for week one. Make sure that each day you label the day of the week, and the date. (Remember, the date is on the back board.) If you are absent on one of the days of the week, you need to write absent for that day. You do not need to make of the missing day. If you are absent, you need to turn in your warm ups for the week on the day you return.

Day 1 Monday Weeks 28 – 35 Review

Fill in the blanks with words from the box.

asserted	connotation	feasible	inherent	occasionally	relevant
continuous	hypothesis	integrated	persistent	speculate

Tenzing Norgay was certain of one thing while he was growing up. Someday, the Sherpa would stand on the top of Mr. Everest! Most people didn't believe it ____ (1) _____ to climb to 29,028 feet about sea level. But besides being born with ____ (2) _____ courage and determination, Tenzing was ____ (3) _____. It wasn't until his seventh try that he succeed in climbing Mt. Everest! On May 29, 1953, he and Edmund Hillary were the first people to stand at the top of the tallest mountain in the world. Although a "Sherpa" is still known as a cultural group in Nepal, the word has another ____ (4) _____ today – a mountain climber!

Day 2 Tuesday Weeks 28 – 35 Review

Fill in the blanks with words from the box.

asserted	connotation	feasible	inherent	occasionally	relevant
continuous	hypothesis	integrated	persistent	speculate

Mr. Johnson asked us for questions ____ (1) _____ to science. After Luke asked why the sky looks blue, Mr. Johnson asked us to ____ (2) _____ on her question. I guessed that it had to do with light moving through air. Joe had a ____ (3) _____ that was more specific. He ____ (4) _____ that light appears white but is really several ____ (5) _____ colors. It usually moves in a straight and ____ (6) _____ line. But ____ (7) _____ it bumps into a bit of dust or gas. Then the light bounces off and breaks into individual colors. Blue is simply the color we see most.

Day 3 Wednesday Weeks 28 – 35 Review

Fill in the blanks with words from the box.

appropriate	implicit	objective	potential	speculation
explicit	integral	pertinent	probable	subjective

If you see paper dragons and red decorations in late January or early February, it is _____(1)_____ that they are for Chinese New Year. This holiday is an _____(2)_____ part of Chinese culture. It is an _____(3)_____ time to shoot off firework and eat special foods. Some think the holiday began to celebrate the start of spring. Another _____(4)_____ of folklore is that an aggressive beast chased people every new year. People used the color red and fireworks to scare it away. Of course, that explanation is _____(5)_____, as opposed to factual. No matter the reason, though, it’s an exciting time of the year!

Day 4 Thursday Weeks 28 – 35 Review

Fill in the blanks with words from the box.

appropriate	implicit	objective	potential	speculation
explicit	integral	pertinent	probable	subjective

Before Ms. Diaz left, she gave clear and _____(1)_____ directions to write a paragraph for each question on the board. Those directions eliminated _____(2)_____ questions. She didn’t have to remind the students to do their best, either. It was _____(3)_____ every time she assigned a task. When the students came to the final question, they were surprised because it wasn’t very factual or _____(4)_____. It was, “What is the most beautiful dessert?” Usually the questions were _____(5)_____ to geography. When Ms. Diaz returned, she looked at the board, started laughing, and exclaimed, “I guess even teachers make mistakes!” She meant to write “desert,” not “dessert”!