

People often confuse the words good, well, bad, and badly.

The word good is an adjective. It describes a noun or pronoun.

Greg is a good singer.

The word well is an adverb. It describes a verb and sometimes an adjective.

Greg sings well.

The word bad is an adjective. It describes noun or pronoun. Do not use bad as an adverb.

Miranda is a bad singer.

The word badly is an adverb. It describes a verb or adjective.

Miranda sings badly.

Complete each sentence correctly.

- Choir practice went _____ yesterday.
- Everyone sang _____, especially the tenors.
- However, Greg's solo was really _____.
- He performed _____ during practice.

Circle the correct word to complete each sentence.

- I wanted to go with them so (bad, badly).
- You can't very (good, well) say no.
- His arm was either broken or very (bad, badly) twisted.
- Here you'll find Dayton news and stories as (good, well) as other community news.
- At this point, the information doesn't do anyone any (good, well).
- I feel really (good, well).
- I got hurt pretty (bad, badly) in the accident.
- They put us in a (bad, badly) spot.
- Olson actually had a pretty (good, well) time.
- The return trip was just as (bad, badly) as the long trip to Johnny's house.
- He felt (bad, badly) about the whole affair.
- So I decided that this was as (good, well) as it gets.
- Excuse me for not speaking English very (good, well).
- It's (good, well) to be here.
- I shivered so (bad, badly) that I had trouble breathing.
- The rash was itching (bad, badly) and really swelling up.
- If you play hard, something (good, well) is going to happen.
- It is a (good, well) mile from here.
- The cub is (bad, badly) hurt.
- I have to keep playing (good, well) or I'm going to get lapped.
- The game was going (bad, badly) for the home team.
- Unfortunately, the paths they walked on were (bad, badly) trampled.
- Abdul opened his first store in 1996, and it did pretty (good, well).
- Black-throated thrushes and robin accentors spend their winters here as (good, well).
- I wanted the job very (bad, badly).